

SyberWorks Introduces the e-Learning Lingo Podcast Series

Waltham, Massachusetts – May 16, 2006

SyberWorks, Inc., a leader in custom e-Learning Solutions and the Learning Management System industry, today announces a new podcast series, the e-Learning Lingo Podcast Series.

Dave Boggs, CEO of SyberWorks, states:

“Training managers and e-Learning professionals often use a lot of industry jargon. Each week, the e-Learning Lingo Podcast Series will discuss one or two important terms used in the e-Learning industry. These e-Learning Lingo Podcasts are created as a free service to academia and the e-Learning industry at large.”

The e-Learning Lingo Podcast Series will offer some very different features than our other two podcast series. Dave Powell, our SyberWorks Documentarian, will provide the weekly definitions and examples of the various terms. Dave has 30 years experience in writing and editing, with a Masters in Communications, specializing in Science Journalism. Throughout the course of his career, Dave has worked in PR, marketing, technical writing, and magazine editing for various technology publications.

“We want people to join the discussion,” Boggs adds, “so an e-Learning Lingo Podcast Blog will allow listeners to comment on each episode in three different ways! They may post a message to the blog; leave a web-based voicemail using MyChingo; or call in and leave a message about each show. The number is 206-350-8757.”

The e-Learning Lingo Podcast: Episode #1 “The Advanced Distributed Learning (ADL) Initiative” <http://www.syberworks.com/audio/lingopodcast1.mp3> is located in the SyberWorks Online Media Center at http://www.syberworks.com/lingo\_podcast.htm in the About Us section of the SyberWorks web site. The transcript is located at http://www.syberworks.com/lingo1\_transcript.htm.

About The e-Learning Lingo Podcast

The e-Learning Lingo Podcasts are created by SyberWorks, Inc. as a free service to academia, and a resource to the e-Learning industry at large. Each week, the e-Learning Lingo Podcast Series discusses one or two important terms used by professionals in the e-Learning industry. The e-Learning Lingo Podcast focuses primarily on terms used in e-Learning, Performance Management, and Human Capital Management. The podcasts themselves are very brief and are designed for busy executives or students who don't have a lot of time.
